

Suburbia

Cars line the driveways

Houses shut up like drums

Life in comfortable suburbia

The new normal has begun

Neighbors peer through windows

Blinds slatted, curtains drawn

Fearing a faceless monster

Praying for a brighter dawn

Springtime is awakening

Moving forward with normalcy

Who will fill the birdbath or plant the fertile seeds?

Life has somehow changed

Darkness where there was light

People finding strength in solitude

Bracing for the fight

March 24, 2020

Copyright © Suzanne Lynne Keller